The Little Haiti Cultural Complex presents
2021 Miami Art Week exhibition programming
"Noir Atlantic: Connecting the Continents" a Global/Borderless Caribbean exhibition series.

The Little Haiti Cultural Complex presents exhibitions and public programs during Miami Art Week 2021 highlighting contemporary Miami-based artists of the African diaspora, led by the collaborative efforts of local Black arts organizations.

Miami, FL – (November 2021)

The Little Haiti Cultural Complex in partnership with the Haitian Cultural Arts Alliance, IPC ArtSpace, and the studio of Edouard Duval-Carrié presents contemporary art exhibition programming that centers the history of Afrodiasporic peoples with a special focus on the Caribbean and Miami as central points in the Global South.

"Noir Atlantic: Connecting the Continents" is the thirteenth iteration of the Global/Borderless Caribbean exhibition series which exists to facilitate contemporary cultural dialogues on the Caribbean. The 2021 exhibition program "Noir Atlantic: Connecting the Continents" will bring together artists, curators, and researchers in conversation around the thematic of the Global South and the connections of the African Diaspora across the Atlantic featuring contemporary artists based in Florida, representing the continent of Africa, the Caribbean region and the Southern United States.

Featured artists Dinizulu Gene Tinnie, Kabuya Pamela Bowens-Saffo, Errol Miller, and Michelle Grant-Murray with Woosler Delisfort represent a generation of global southern artists that have created a path and laid the foundation for robust artistic production by artists of the African Diaspora in South Florida.

"Noir Atlantic: Connecting the Continents" presented by the Little Haiti Cultural Complex and the Haitian Cultural Arts Alliance is curated by Marie Vickles with Edouard Duval-Carrié and Sandy Dorsainvil.

Auxiliary programming on the campus and neighboring vicinity of the Little Haiti Cultural Complex will be provided by partnering arts organizations IPC ArtSpace, the Studios of Edouard Duval-Carrié and Art Beat Miami. In conjunction with "Noir Atlantic: Connecting the Continents" the Little Haiti Cultural Complex will host workshops, special events, lectures, and performances that emphasize and support the power of expressive authenticity, and a commitment to highlighting culture of the African diaspora.
